Factsheet:

SSAGO Mascots

Last updated: November 2020

Introduction

This factsheet briefly details information regarding SSAGO mascots and their kidnapping. Further information regarding this can be found in the 'SSAGO Mascot Kidnapping' Policy Document.

SSAGO Mascots

Possibly one of the stranger aspects of SSAGO is the existence of mascots! There are both national and club mascots, with each club having to declare at least one mascot that is allowed to be kidnapped. Some clubs have more than one mascot, with older and more sentimental ones kept for memories. Many of the club mascots take the form of a cuddly toy.

Kidnapping mascots

Mascots that are listed as stealable on ssago.org/clubs/mascots can be kidnapped during any SSAGO event apart from the SSAGO ball. Violence is not condoned during the acquisition of a mascot. The mascot belonging to a club hosting a national event is not able to be kidnapped during the event. More information on the rules of Mascot Kidnapping can be found in the Mascot Kidnapping policy document.

Please note that mascot kidnapping and forfeits are meant to be fun. Anyone acting inappropriately will be dealt with accordingly.

National Mascots

There are a number of national mascots that are not able to be kidnapped. These are:

- Brian the Beaver (belonging to the SSAGO Chair)
- Rex the T-Rex (belonging to the SSAGO Secretary)
- Money Bunny (belonging to the SSAGO Treasurer)
- Harold the Hedgehog (belonging to the SSAGO Members Officer)
- Percival the Platypus (belonging to the SSAGO Publicity Officer)
- Freda the Pink Elephant (awarded to the person who behaved most like a Brownie on rally)
- Morris the Pub Crawl Mascot (awarded to the most entertaining person on a SSAGO rally pubcrawl)
